

A NEW PROCESS: ELECTRONIC COLLECTION

Fudo Financial Corporation, a company that specializes in electronic check services, can help IGA Retailers take away the hassle of recovering bad checks. Fudo's InChek program will save your IGA Supermarket both time and money.

The process is simple. When you sign up with InChek, your account is assigned to an Account Manager who is responsible for your bad checks. Once a check is bounced at the bank, it is forwarded directly to Fudo and you are notified immediately. The person's bank account is monitored and as soon as a deposit is made to the account, Fudo debits the amount of the check and deposits collected funds to your account weekly. This process not only ensures that you recover the full face value of your bad checks, it also saves your company bank fees, time and energy needed to pursue a bad check. "With an eye to friendly customer service, our InChek program provides IGA Retailers of all sizes with a win-win approach to handling your bad checks," said Don Siclari, president of Fudo Financial.

More importantly, InChek is free to IGA Retailers after a one-time set up fee of $100. Instead of charging you, Fudo gets a fee from the writer of the bad check. "Fudo's InChek is a real benefit to IGA Retailers," said Bill Benzing, executive vice president and chief growth officer of IGA. "It takes the retailer out of the middle of collecting on bad checks; a factor that is especially important IGA's Hometown Proud community leaders."

For more information on this process, contact Fudo Financial Corp at (888)525-5504, or visit its Web site at www.e-redeposit.com.